Preface

The KEHA Cultural Arts and Heritage Program area annually sponsors a reading program. Extension Homemakers may participate by reading one book from six of these nine categories (listed below). Keep a record of the books read and submit the record to the club Cultural Arts and Heritage chair. The club chair should forward that information to the county chair or to the extension agent. Qualified readers may receive the Cultural Arts Reading Award Bookmark recognition at the county level. Counties are responsible for printing their own bookmark. The bookmark is available for download on the KEHA Cultural Arts and Heritage web page.

This is only a suggested list. You may choose your own titles. Your local public librarian may have other suggestions. Local libraries usually belong to the Kentucky Library Network, which allows individuals to borrow books from other libraries through interlibrary loan. If you cannot find the book you wish to read at your local library, ask about this service.

All the Beauty in the World: The Metropolitan Museum of Art and Me by Patrick Bringley (2023)

This is an inspiring portrait of a great museum, its hidden treasures, and the people who make it tick, written by one of its most intimate observers—a museum guard. Also included are illustrations that reviewers say, “strike just the right balance between simplicity and emotional complexity” (Kirkus Reviews 2/14/2023.)

The Art of Bob Mackie by Frank Vlastnik, Laura Ross, et al. (2021)

For nearly six decades, the iconic and incomparable Bob Mackie has been designing stunning, unforgettable clothing. His unique, glamorous—sometimes hilarious—creations have appeared on Broadway stages, TV screens, runways, and red carpets worldwide. For the first time, he has granted full access to his archives and personal memories to the authors of this lavish celebration of his achievements.

The Art of Collecting: Personal Treasures that Make a Home (Victoria) by Melissa Lester (2022)

Whether it is a passion for exquisite linens, sterling silver, or fine English china—or simply the thrill of the hunt—that entices us to sift through old attics and antiques shops, estate sales, and European flea markets, we are kindred spirits, linked by an unbridled fervor for curating our favorite things.

The Art of Home: A Designer Guide to Creating an Elevated Yet Approachable Home by Shea McGee (2023)

In The Art of Home, Shea takes us through every room of the house, starting with an explanation of the process and then guiding our entryways, living rooms, kitchens, offices, kids' rooms, and even our utility rooms. With step-by-step guides paired with her own design projects and the power of her personal stories, Shea helps us transform the most important parts of our lives and how we live.

The Art of Home by Sara Story and Judith Nasatir (2023)

With a keen eye for art and having spent her childhood in Japan, Singapore, and the United States, rising star designer Sara Story brings a unique perspective to all of her projects. She exacts her aesthetic vision with a style that combines modern with bohemian, creating well-collected, polished environments that feature crisp, elegant, and comfortable design gestures.

The Art of Organizing: An Artful Guide to an Organized Life by Nicole Gabai (2023)

In this unique book using the color wheel as its guide, artist and professional organizer Nicole Gabai presents her six-step organizing system, using delightful illustrations and colorful reference points to keep you inspired every step of the way in your organizing project. The Art of Organizing is a whimsical and artfully illustrated definitive guide to organizing your life.

The Art Thief: A True Story of Love, Crime, and a Dangerous Obsession by Michael Finkel (2023)

The Art Thief tells of the many heists committed by Stéphane Breitwieser, until his inevitable downfall. Proving both his craft and obsession, he successfully stole over three hundred pieces of art to admire in his own personal collection. However, disregarding the increasing risk and his partners warnings, Breitwieser's uncontrollable desire leads to his capture during one final score.

The Come Up: An Oral History of the Rise of Hip-Hop by Jonathan Abrams (2022)

A culmination of hundreds of interviews, personal accounts, and over three years of work to record the history and art of hip-hop. Originating in 1973 from a party in the Bronx, and it now is the most popular music genre in America, influencing fashion, art, and language. The Come Up provides a voice to the pioneers that made hip-hop what it is today.

Baking Yesteryear: The Best Recipes from the 1900s to the 1980s by B. Dylan Hollis (2023)

A true cookbook of the ages to challenge the mundane. Hollis takes readers on a curated trip remarking on the many surprisingly delicious recipes of the past century. Including the unusual gems of Chocolate Sauerkraut Cake and Potato Chip Cookies, experience a culinary journey with humor mixed in.

Barbie Takes the Catwalk: A Style Icon's History in Fashion by Karan Feder (2023)

Barbie has always been a fashion icon, with a wardrobe of looks inspired by the world's great fashion designers, and inspiring them as well with her signature style. From decade-defining designs by formidable fashion royalty such as Dior, Balenciaga, Yves St. Laurent, Pucci, and Chanel, to skateboard culture and rave fashion, Barbie doll's outfits have reflected the fashion and the time.

Country Living Farmhouse Style: Warm and Welcoming Rustic Homes by Caroline McKenzie and Country Living (2023)

Step inside 20 beautifully-designed homes and discover how to create the cozy and practical country vibe. This collection of classic and modern farmhouses inspires easy and comfortable living in every room. Just add rustic country charm to make your own home your favorite place to be.

The Gift of Home: Beauty and Inspiration to Make Every Space a Special Place by Bre Doucette (2022)

Bre Doucette is here to help you break free from your decorating disillusionment with expert advice on how to view your home from a new perspective, overcome the obstacles that keep you from trying new ideas, and be happy in the here and now as you transform your spaces into places filled with warmth, joy, and love.

Landings by Arwen Donahue (2022)

This is part memoir, part art book, with an introduction by “New York Times” bestselling author Barbara Kingsolver. In 130 ink-and-watercolor drawings, the story of one year on a family farm in Kentucky unfolds in captured moments of daily life: Donahue's husband chopping wood, a cow sniffing her head, her daughter tending to goats after a hard day at school.

Making Things: Finding Use, Meaning, and Satisfaction in Crafting Everyday Objects by Erin Boyle and Rose Pearlman (2024)

Through easy-to-follow tutorials for over 100 projects that are both accessible and aspirational, Making Things invites readers to try their hands at a variety of crafts and celebrate the satisfaction that comes from slowly and carefully creating for oneself. Learn to fold magazine pages into Masu Boxes for organizing bits and bobs, make a cardboard loom for weaving potholders out of old linens, or braid your own Kumihimo Dog Leash, etc.

The Soul of Gift Wrapping: Creative Techniques for Expressing Gratitude, Inspired by the Japanese Art of Giving by Megumi Lorna Inouye and Beth Kempton (2024)

Drawing on the gift-giving traditions of her Japanese heritage, Inouye explores how the act of giving a thoughtfully wrapped gift can be a creative, caring act for both the giver and the receiver. Using recycled and repurposed materials, Inouye’s approach inspires readers to think intentionally about the presentation of every gift.

Style: The Art of Creating a Beautiful Home by Natalie Walton (2022)

Style: The Art of Creating a Beautiful Home is a timeless interiors book that shows you how to transform your living spaces using what you own and love. Based on more than a decade of industry experience and teaching, this book will show you how to connect with your own personal style and enjoy inspiring, welcoming and authentic interiors. Styling is both an art and a science – and you can learn both.

HISTORY

A New History of the American South by W. Fitzhugh Brundage, Laura F. Edwards, et al. (2023)

For at least two centuries, the South's economy, politics, religion, race relations, fiction, music, foodways and more have figured prominently in nearly all facets of American life. This book draws on both well-established and new currents in scholarship, among them global and Atlantic world history, histories of African diaspora, and environmental history. It considers the experiences of all people of the South: Black, white, Indigenous, female, male, poor, and elite. Together, the essays compose a seamless, cogent, and engaging work.

Anne Boleyn & Elizabeth I: The Mother and Daughter Who Forever Changed British History
by Tracy Borman (2023)

Much of the fascination with Britain's legendary Tudors centers around the dramas surrounding Henry VIII and his six wives and Elizabeth I's rumored liaisons. Yet the most fascinating relationship in that historic era may well be that between the mother and daughter who, individually and collectively, changed the course of British history.

American Childhood: A Photographic History by Todd Brewster (2023)

Did Americans "invent" childhood? Author Todd Brewster believes we did, or at least childhood as "a period of life cordoned off from that of full maturity, covered with a veil of protection, and subject to a program of nurture." That's the inspiration behind this rich, compelling volume of rarely seen historical images drawn from many important photography collections as well as dozens of other archives, flea markets, and antique shops.

Cold Sun: The Search for World War II Airmen Lost in a Tibetan Glacier by William H. Jordan and Mac Thornberry (2023)

In January 1944, a US Army Air Corps transport, en route to its home base in India, crashed into a snowfield in Tibet, killing all crew members. Because of the remote location and fierce winter weather, the aircraft was covered by heavy snowfall. The snowfield glaciated, completely hiding the aircraft until its accidental discovery by a Tibetan hunter in 1993. A nearby Chinese army garrison launched an immediate reconnaissance into the crash site and brought out remnants of the airplane and remains of the crew. They then notified the American Embassy in Beijing.

The Dictionary People: The Unsung Heroes Who Created the Oxford English Dictionary by Sarah Ogilvie (2023)

Most people know the Oxford English Dictionary, or OED, but few know anything about its authors. This book tells the stories of many of those behind this historic accomplishment. The author reveals the shocking truth that the OED's authorship includes three murderers, the daughter of Karl Marx, activists, inventors, and other surprising characters. A fascinating look into the history of defining the English language.

Edison's Ghosts: The Untold Weirdness of History's Greatest Geniuses by Katie Spalding (2023)

"As Albert Einstein almost certainly never said, everyone is a genius – but if you judge a fish by its ability to climb a tree, it will live its whole life believing that it is stupid." So begins Katie Spalding's spunky takedown of the Western canon, and how genius may not be as irrefutably great as we commonly understand. While most of us may never become Einstein, it may surprise you to learn that there's probably a bunch of stuff you can do that Einstein couldn't. And, as Spalding shows, the famous prodigies she explores here were quite odd by any definition.

Forgotten Warriors: The Long History of Women in Combat by Sarah Percy (2023)

From Boudicca's rebellion to the war in Ukraine, battlefields have always contained a surprising number of women. Some formed all-female armies, some fought disguised as men, mobilized in times of national survival. International relations expert Sarah Percy unearths the stories of these forgotten warriors. She sets the historical record straight, revealing that women's exclusion from active combat in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries is a blip in a much longer narrative of female inclusion.

The Hammer: Power, Inequality, and the Struggle for the Soul of Labor by Hamilton Nolan (2024)

Nolan's examination of the American labor movement's history and current status finds us at a tipping point with public opinion on unions. He discussed the intersection of labor and politics and how organized labor can be a positive force. Using personal struggles and a diverse sample of workplaces, The Hammer presents a compelling assessment of the past, present, and future of organized labor in America.

The Royal Wardrobe by Rosie Harte and Headline (2023)

From the draping of a fabric to the arrangements of jewels, the clothing worn by royals is anything but coincidental. King at just nine years old, Edward VI's clothes were padded to make him seem stronger and more manly; and the ever-conscious Elizabeth II insisted her coronation gown include all the representative flora of the commonwealth nations, and not just that of the United Kingdom. Yet reigning monarchs are not the only ones whose fashion sensibilities could mean make or break for the crown.

The Small and the Mighty: Twelve Unsung Americans Who Changed the Course of History, From the Founding to the Civil Rights Movement by Sharon McMahon (2024)

In The Small and the Mighty, Sharon McMahon proves that the most remarkable Americans are often ordinary people who didn't make it into the textbooks. Not the presidents, but the telephone operators. Not the aristocrats, but the schoolteachers. Through meticulous research, she discovers history's unsung characters and brings their rich, riveting stories to light for the first time.

The Southern Way of Life: Meanings of Culture and Civilization in the American South by Charles Reagan Wilson (2023)

How does one begin to understand the idea of a distinctive southern way of life—a concept as enduring as it is disputed? In this examination of the American South in national and global contexts, the author assesses how diverse communities of southerners have sought to define the region's identity. Surveying centuries of southern regional consciousness across genres, disciplines, and cultural strains - - prior presentations of the region, advancing a vision of southern culture that has always been dynamic and complicated by race and class are explored.

Star-Crossed: A Romeo and Juliet Story in Hitler's Paris by Heather Dune Macadam, Simon Worrell, et al. (2023)

This epic true story of love and resistance during WWII is part historical portrait of life during the Occupation, part valentine to The City of Light and the resilience of its people. The story follows the romance between the Romeo and Juliet of war-torn Paris – a Catholic Resistance fighter and a Holocaust victim who meet at the famous Café Flore before war, prejudice, and disapproving families set them on divergent and tragically inevitable paths.

Gatewood: Kentucky's Uncommon Man by Matthew Strandmark (2023)

When Louis Gatewood Galbraith passed away in 2012, the flood of tributes honoring him merely scratched the surface of the life of this colorful and controversial figure. Best known as an advocate for the legalization of cannabis, Second Amendment rights, and smaller government, Galbraith was a perennial candidate whose once-quixotic platform might have found traction in contemporary Kentucky politics.

Guerrilla Warfare in Civil War Kentucky: Volume II -- Legacy of the Irregulars by Gerald W Fischer and James M Prichard (2024)

While the American Civil War is well-known for large-scale battles that involved thousands of men, like Gettysburg, Chickamauga, and Shiloh, the conflict between North and South was also fought in small communities across the Bluegrass, where armed men were quick to settle differing opinions with the barrel of a gun. Fischer also expounds on the backgrounds of these desperate men, which gives insight into why they followed their bloody path to an early grave.

Haint Country: Dark Folktales from the Hills and Hollers by Matthew R. Sparks and Olivia Sizemore (2024)

The hills of the Appalachia region hold secrets—dark, deep, varied, and mysterious. These secrets are often told in the form of eerie, thrilling, and creepy folk tales that reveal strange sightings, curious oddities, and commonly serve as cautionary tales for eager and curious ears. These spine-tingling stories have been told and retold by family members, neighbors, and "hillfolk" for generations.

Longing for adventure, she was inspired her to turn a pipedream into an ambitious road trip to raise funds for organizations devoted to Assistance Dogs. All she and her husband, Blaine, had to do was learn to ride Harleys and figure out how on earth they'd fit their two Golden Retrievers on board motorcycles for their seven-month journey across 48 states.

Villa Cetinale: Memoir of a House in Tuscany by Simon Upton, John Pawson, et al. (2023)

After inheriting a seventeenth-century Tuscan villa, Ned Lambton and his wife, Marina, lovingly restored the estate as a retreat for family and friends. Located just outside Siena, Italy, Villa Cetinale stands amid vineyards, silver olive groves, and wooded hills that have remained largely untouched since the late seventeenth century, when Cardinal Flavio Chigi, a nephew of Pope Alexander VII, expanded what was a modest farmhouse into the villa we see today.

Walk Ride Paddle: A Life Outside by Tim Kaine (2024)

This compelling account of one man's journey across hundreds of miles of Virginia wilderness is a moving testament to the optimistic spirit of America. In 2019, Tim Kaine—Virginia senator and former Democratic vice-presidential candidate—commemorated both his sixtieth birthday and his twenty-fifth year in public office by undertaking a three-part journey across the Virginia landscape as he hiked, cycled, and canoed across the state. His chronicle became an organic reflection of the extraordinary events occurring across America during that time.

CLASSICS

The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman by Ernest T. Gaines (1971)

Miss Jane Pittman is one of the most unforgettable heroines in American fiction. A woman whose life has come to symbolize the struggle for freedom, dignity, and justice. This novel spans one hundred years of Miss Jane's remarkable life, from her childhood as a slave on a Louisiana plantation to the Civil Rights era of the 1960s. It is a story of courage and survival, history, bigotry, and hope—as seen through the eyes of a woman who lived through it all.

Bridge to Terabithia by Katherine Paterson (1977)

Jess Aarons' greatest ambition is to be the fastest runner in his grade. He's been practicing all summer and can't wait to see his classmates' faces when he beats them all. But on the first day of school, a new girl boldly crosses over to the boys' side and outruns everyone. Jess and Leslie Burke soon become inseparable. Together they create Terabithia, a magical kingdom in the woods where the two of them reign as king and queen, and their imaginations set the only limits.

Catch-22 by Joseph Heller (1961)

This book is centered around the protagonist bombardier Yossarian and his experience with the rule Catch-22, which frustratingly states that a man is considered insane if he willingly continues to fly dangerous combat missions; but if he makes a formal request to be removed from duty, he is proven sane and therefore ineligible to be relieved. Set in Italy during World War II, this is an insightful examination of human nature and conflict.

Flowers for Algernon by Daniel Keyes (1966)

A mentally disabled man whose quest for intelligence mirrors experiments like that of Algernon, an extraordinary lab mouse. In poignant diary entries, Charlie tells how a brain operation increases his IQ and changes his life. As the experimental procedure takes effect, Charlie's intelligence expands until it surpasses that of the doctors who engineered his metamorphosis. The experiment seems to be a scientific breakthrough of paramount importance--until Algernon begins his sudden, unexpected deterioration. Will the same happen to Charlie?

The Giver by Lois Lowry (1993)

Life in the community where Jonas lives is idyllic. Designated birthmothers produce new children, who are assigned to appropriate family units. Citizens are assigned their partners and their jobs. No one thinks to ask questions. Everyone obeys. Everyone is the same. Except Jonas. Not until he is given his life assignment as the Receiver of Memory does he begin to understand the dark, complex secrets behind his fragile community.

Go Tell It on the Mountain by James Baldwin (1953)

This classic novel opened new possibilities in the American language and in the way Americans understand themselves. With lyrical precision, psychological directness, resonating symbolic power, and a rage that is at once unrelenting and compassionate, Baldwin tells the story of the stepson of the minister of a storefront Pentecostal church in Harlem one Saturday in March of 1935.

The Handmaid's Tale by Margaret Atwood (1985)

In this dystopian future, environmental disasters and declining birthrates have led to a Second American Civil War. The result is the rise of the Republic of Gilead, a totalitarian regime that enforces rigid social roles and enslaves the few remaining fertile women. Offred is one of these, a Handmaid bound to produce children for one of Gilead's commanders. Deprived of her husband, her child, her freedom, and even her own name, Offred clings to her memories and her will to survive.

Hannah Fowler by Janice Holt Giles (Kentucky author) (1956)

In the novel Hannah Fowler, Janice Holt Giles created a pioneer woman who would, In Giles's words, "endow her own physical seed with her strength and courage, and her own tenderness and love." First published in 1956, this work is the second in Giles's series of historical novels on Kentucky, which includes The Kentuckians and The Believers.

The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter by Carson McCullers (1940)

In a Georgia Mill town during the 1930s, an enigmatic John Singer, draws out the haunted confessions of an itinerant worker, a doctor, a widowed café owner, and a young girl. Each yearns for escape from small town life, but the young girl, Mick Kelly, the book's heroine (loosely based on McCullers), finds solace in her music.

The House of the Baskervilles by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle (1902)

A country doctor has come to 221B Baker Street, the lodgings of famed detective Sherlock Holmes, with the eerie tale of the Hound of the Baskervilles. The legend warns the descendants of the Baskerville family never to venture out on the moors that surround their ancestral home, for fear that they will meet the devil-beast that lurks there.

Lucy is the first to find the secret of the wardrobe in the professor's mysterious old house. At first, no one believes her. But soon Edmund and then Peter and Susan discover the Magic and meet Aslan, the Great Lion, for themselves. In the blink of an eye, their lives are changed forever.

My Antonia by Willa Cather (1918)

The novel tells the story of Jim Burden, an orphan boy, and Antonia Shimenda who are brought as children to be pioneers in Nebraska in the late 19th century. This beautifully written story is the author's final book in her Great Plains trilogy and was praised for bringing the American West to life.

My Side of the Mountain by Jean Craighead George (1959)

Terrribly unhappy in his family's crowded New York City apartment, Sam Gribble runs away to the solitude-and danger-of the mountains, where he finds a side of himself he never knew.

Night by Elie Wiesel (1960)

Elie Wiesel's memories of the nightmare world of the death camps present him with an intolerable question: how can the God he once so fervently believed in have allowed these monstrous events to occur? There are no easy answers in this harrowing book, which probes life's essential riddles with the lucid anguish only great literature achieves. It marks the crucial first step in Wiesel's lifelong project to bear witness for those who died.

The No. 1 Ladies' Detective Agency by Alexander McCall Smith (1998)

A new novel series tells the story of the delightfully cunning and enormously engaging Precious Ramotswe, who is drawn to her profession to help people with problems in their lives. Upon setting up shop in a small storefront in Gaborone, she is hired to track down a missing husband, uncover a con man, and follow a wayward daughter. But the case that tugs at her heart, and lands her in danger, is a missing boy, who may have been snatched by witchdoctors.

The Outsiders by S. E. Hinton (1967)

No one ever said life was easy. But Ponyboy is pretty sure that he's got things figured out. He knows that he can count on his brothers. And he knows that he can count on his friends—true friends who would do anything for him. But not on much else besides trouble with the Socs, a vicious gang of rich kids whose idea of a good time is beating up on “greasers” like Ponyboy. At least he knows what to expect—until the night someone takes things too far.

River of Earth by James Still (Kentucky author) (1940)

Seen through the eyes of a boy, this is a story of three years in the life of his family and their kin. He sees his parents pulled between the meager farm with its sense of independence and the mining camp with its uncertain promise of material prosperity. In his world, violence, and death are part of everyday life, accepted and endured. Yet it is a world of dignity, love, and humor, of natural beauty which Still evokes in sharp, poetic images. No writer has caught more effectively the vividness of mountain speech or shown more honestly the trials and joys of mountain life.

The Secret Garden by Frances Hodgson Burnett (1911)

This classic tale of discovery and friendship tells the story of recently orphaned Mary Lennox, who is sent to live on her uncle's estate. While exploring the grounds, she discovers a long-neglected garden that has been walled off. She begins to care for the garden along with a gardener, a young friend, and her invalid cousin. Together these characters nurture it into a thing of beauty while building friendship and discovering their capacity for confidence and empathy.

Southern Christmas: Literary Classics of the Holidays edited by Judy Long and Thomas Payton (1998)

Christmas has always captured the hearts of southern writers. In this book are twenty-eight short stories, poems, and excerpts from classic novels by famous writers including Mark Twain, O. Henry, Truman Capote, Langston Hughes, and many others. They offer unique opportunities to reflect on a variety of memories of the holidays.

Their Eyes Were Watching God by Zora Neale Hurston (1937)

This novel brings to life a Southern love story with the wit and pathos found only in the writing of Zora Neale Hurston. Out of print for almost thirty years—due largely to initial audiences' rejection of its strong black female protagonist—this classic has since become perhaps the most widely read and highly acclaimed novel in the canon of African-American literature.

The Trail of the Lonesome Pine by John Fox, Jr. (Kentucky author) (1908)

"A classic of Appalachian literature. Through this romance runs the social and political drama of eastern Kentucky's mountain people. . . . Fox can help us, even now, to consider what Appalachia finally means to its people." Appalachian Journal --Appalachian Journal --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

The Wind in the Willows by Kenneth Grahame (1908)

This is a book for those "who keep the spirit of youth alive in them; of life, sunshine, running water, woodlands, dusty roads, winter firesides." So wrote Kenneth Grahame of his timeless tale of Rat, Mole, Badger, and Toad that triumphantly succeeds in conveying the miracle of loyalty and friendship. This tale of four friends and their adventures is a classic that inspires and delights readers of all ages.

Wild Sargasso Sea by Jean Rhys (1966)

This mesmerizing work introduces us to Antoinette Cosway, a sensual and protected young woman who is sold into marriage to the prideful Mr. Rochester. Rhys portrays Cosway amidst a society so driven by hatred, so skewed in its sexual relations, that it can literally drive a woman out of her mind.

The Wind in the Willows by Kenneth Grahame (1908)

Originally a series of tales for the author's young son, The Wind in the Willows presents the many adventures of Rat, Mole, Badger, Toad, and other animal friends in the English countryside. These delightful stories introduce the reader to a simple, but never boring, natural and rustic world. A cozy read for adults as well as children.
